From the Hague Courant, dated Oct. 20.

Arens, Four Leagues from Barcelona, Sept. 18.

THE 16th arrived in the Spaniſh Army 10 Cannon for Battery. The further Neceſſaries for beginning the Siege of Barcelona, are not expected before the End of this Month. In the mean while we are endeavouring to ſhut up the Place cloſer and cloſer: On each Side of it towards the Sea ſtrong Intrenchments are thrown up, and 6 Iron Guns are placed on them, to hinder the conveying of Proviſions into the Place by ſmall Boats; but notwithſtanding that Care, Majorcan Barks, furniſhed with Oars, enter the Port daily with Forrage and all Sorts of Victuals. The 14th a violent Storm of Wind from the South drave the three Spaniſh Gallies deep into Sea, and probably have at leaſt ſo diſabled them as to render them unſerviceable for ſome time. Mean while the Inhabitants of Barcelona grow hardened in their Reſolution to abide Extremities, and have erected three Gibbets, one of them in Sight of the Spaniſh Army; to ſerve to terrify thoſe who might be diſpoſed to raiſe Tumults, and to puniſh thoſe Caſtilians whom they ſhall take, becauſe we hang up the Priſoners we take from them. The Deputation have already coined ſome Money, with their Arms and thoſe of the Principality thereon.

From the Hague Courant, dated Oct. 25.

Madrid, Oct. 2. The King was Yeſterday taken ill, and obliged to betake himſelf to his Bed. The Son of my Lord Lexington lies ſo dangerouſly ill, that the Doctors have given him over. The Marquis de Canales is on his Death-Bed, and received extreme Unction four Days ago.

From the Hague Courant, dated Oct. 20.

Turin, Sept. 30. The 22d Inſtant, the Marquis of Suza and his Siſter, legitimated Children of the King of Sicily, were declared Prince and Princeſs of the Blood. The 23d in the Morning, the new made Knights of the Order of the Annonciada, took the uſual Oath to his Majeſty; who afterwards went in his Royal Robes, accompanied by the two Princes and a great Train of Nobility, to the Cathedral, and being ſeated on his Throne, and Maſs being ſaid by the Biſhop of Mondovi, Te Deum was ſung, the Cannon and ſmall Arms of the Garriſon firing three Rounds. The Queen, the Dutcheſs-Mother, and the Princes and Princeſſes of the Blood, were not aſſiſtant at the Service; but were in their incloſed Chairs, where they heard Maſs and Te Deum. Six Biſhops aſſiſted at this Solemnity; and in the Afternoon the Princes Royal received the Compliments of the Nobility in their Bed-Chamber; and the Marquis de Suza ſtood under the Canopy, having the Rank of Prince of the Blood in all theſe Ceremonies. The Prince of Piemont is not called Duke of Savoy as 'twas ſaid he would, but both the Princes are ſtiled Royal Highneſs. In the Evening the Fireworks in the Square of the Palace were let off, the Prince of Piemont ſetting fire to them. The 24th all things were got ready for departing, and the Deputies from Caſal had Audience of their Majeſties. The 25th at 8 in the Morning the King ſet out from hence, accompanied by the Dutcheſs Mother, the Princes Royal and thoſe of the Blood; and they dined at Carignan. At 1 a Clock the King rode Poſt to Vineuf, where having ſpent ſome time with the Count de Salis, their Majeſties met in the Evening at Raconis, the 26th they lay at Coniſin, and the 27th at Limon. The Dutcheſs Mother, with the Marchioneſs de Suza (who is to marry the Prince of Carignan) returned hither the 26th. The Court will arrive to Day at Nice. Our Troops on the Frontiers of the Milaneze are reinforced daily. The Princes Royal go no further with them than to Limon. The Marquis de Suza is returned hither.

From the Hague Courant, dated Oct. 20.

Genoa, Oct. 2. 'Tis adviſed from Villa-Franca, that all the Troops of Savoy deſigned for Sicily are imbarked there; and that the King of Sicily was expected there the 30th paſt.

From the Hague Courant, dated Oct. 25.

Copenhagen, Oct. 14. Laſt Thurſday at 7 in the Evening the King came hither unexpected. That Day our Fleet, conſiſting of 18 Ships of the Line, beſides Frigates and Fireſhips, put to Sea from the Kioger-bogt, in Queſt of the Swedes who to the Number of 17 Ships of the Line and having 2 or 3000 Men on board, are ſailed for the Iſland of Rugen. The Captains of our Fleet have Order to regard no Paſſports but what are ſigned by the King himſelf. His Majeſty's whole Retinue and Baggage are already come hither from Gottorp; ſo that the Court will not probably return to Holſtein till after Winter. The Maſters of Ships arrived from Finland relate, that the Czar's Army, after having taken Abo, had poſted themſelves 4

Leagues

Leagues beyond that City, there to ſtay till the old Fortifications are repaired and new perfected. His Czarian Majeſty had given 100 Ducats to a Scots Captain who had entertained him on board his Ship, and permitted his Ship to paſs Cuſtom-free.
